

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An optical device in which an end surface of a periodic multilayer structure is provided as a beam incidence surface or as a beam exit surface. The optical device can realize a 5 high-resolving-power spectroscopic apparatus without having any increase in size of the apparatus and by use of good directivity of beam leaked from the multilayer structure and strong wavelength dependence of an angle of the leaked beam.